

I spend so much time on the phone at work when I get home it is my time to recharge and when calls come in pertaining to sales feels like I'm still working. Everynight we get at least four unwanted sales calls. Weekends the phone rings all day with sales calls, we can't even answer our phone for fear of getting caught with a sales person and yelling at them for their persistence. I have signed up on the do not call list but we still get calls. Please keep protecting our privacy our homes should be private where else can you go to get privacy.
